31-1-231. Requirements of retail installment contracts. (1) Each retail installment contract must be in writing, signed by both the buyer and the seller, and completed as to all essential provisions prior to the signing of the contract by the buyer. However, if a retail installment transaction is a sale of goods other than a motor vehicle where title, lien, or other security interest is not retained or taken by the seller, then the retail installment contract is not required to be contained in a single document. In that case, if the contract is contained in more than one document, then one document may be an original document executed by the retail buyer applicable to purchases of goods or services to be made by the retail buyer from time to time, and in that case the document, together with the sales slip, account book, or other written statement relating to each purchase, must set forth all of the information required by this section and constitutes the retail installment contract for each purchase.

(2) The printed portion of the contract, other than instructions for completion, must be in at least 8-point type. The contract must conspicuously disclose the following notice:

"1. Notice to the buyer. Do not sign this contract before you read it or if it contains any blank spaces other than blank spaces for the serial number of the goods or other similar information and the due date of the first installment if the goods have not been delivered to you at the time you sign the contract.

2. You are entitled to an exact copy of the contract bearing your signature.

3. Under the law, you have the right to pay off in advance the full amount due and to obtain a partial refund of the finance charge."

(3) If the contract covers the sale of a motor vehicle, it must also contain a specific statement that is conspicuously disclosed that liability insurance coverage for bodily injury and property damage caused to others is not included if that is the case.

(4) The contract must contain the names of the seller and the buyer, the place of business of the seller, the residence or place of business of the buyer as specified by the buyer, and a description of the goods sold or services furnished or to be furnished and must clearly state and describe any collateral security taken for the buyer's obligation.

(5) The contract must contain the following items:

(a) the cash sale price of the goods or services;

(b) the amount of the buyer's downpayment and whether made in money or goods or partly in money and partly in goods, including a brief description of the goods traded in;

(c) the difference between items in subsections (5)(a) and (5)(b);

(d) the amount, if any, included for insurance and other benefits if a separate charge is made for insurance and other benefits, specifying the types of coverage and benefits;

(e) the amount of official fees;

(f) the principal balance, which is the sum of items in subsections (5)(c) through (5)(e);

(g) the amount of the finance charge;

(h) the total amount of the time balance, stated as one sum in dollars and cents, which is the sum of items in subsections (5)(f) and (5)(g), payable in installments by the buyer to the seller;

(i) the number of installments;

(j) the amount of each installment; and

(k) the due date or period of installments.

(6) The items in subsection (5) need not be stated in the sequence or order set forth, and additional items may be included to explain the computations made in determining the amount to be paid by the buyer.

(7) A retail installment contract may not be signed by any party when it contains blank spaces to be filled in after it has been signed, except that if delivery of the goods is not made at the time of the signing of the contract, the serial number of the goods or similar information and the due date of the first installment may be inserted in the contract after it is signed. The buyer's written acknowledgment, conforming to the requirements of 31-1-232, of delivery of a copy of a contract, in any action or proceeding by or against a holder of the contract without knowledge to the contrary when the holder purchases the contract, must be conclusive proof:

(a) of the delivery;

(b) that the contract when signed did not contain any blank spaces except as provided in this subsection (7); and

(c) of compliance with 31-1-231 through 31-1-236.

(8) If a retail installment transaction is subject to the federal Truth in Lending Act, 15 U.S.C. 1601-1667e, a seller that has complied with all of the requirements of the act must be considered to have satisfied the requirements of subsections (2) through (6) of this section.

(9) A person may not engage in any device or subterfuge intended to evade the requirements of this part, including making loans or assisting another in making loans disguised as personal property sales and leaseback transactions or disguising or assisting another in disguising loan proceeds as cash rebates for the pretextual installment sale of goods or services.

33-2-411. Commissioner's reserve valuation method. (1) Except as otherwise provided in 33-2-412(3) and (4), 33-2-417(2), and subsection (4) of this section, reserves according to the commissioner's reserve valuation method, for the life insurance and endowment benefits of policies providing for a uniform amount of insurance and requiring the payment of uniform premiums, must be the excess, if any, of the present value, at the date of valuation, of future guaranteed benefits provided for by the policies, over the then present value of any future modified net premiums. The modified net premiums for any policy must be the uniform percentage of the respective contract premiums for the benefits that the present value, at the date of issue of the policy, of all modified net premiums must be equal to the sum of the then present value of the benefits provided for by the policy and the excess of subsection (1)(a) over subsection (1)(b), as follows:

(a) a net level annual premium equal to the present value, at the date of issue, of benefits provided for after the first policy year, divided by the present value, at the date of issue of an annuity of one per annum payable on the first and each subsequent anniversary of the policy on which a premium falls due. However, the net level annual premium may not exceed the net level annual premium on the 19-year premium whole life plan for insurance of the same amount at an age 1 year higher than the age at issue of the policy.

(b) a net 1-year term premium for benefits provided for in the first policy year.

(2) (a) For each life insurance policy issued on or after January 1, 1987, for which the contract premium in the first policy year exceeds that of the second year, for which a comparable additional benefit is not provided in the first year for the excess, and that provides an endowment benefit, a cash surrender value, or a combination of both in an amount greater than the excess premium, the reserve according to the commissioner's reserve valuation method, as of any policy anniversary occurring on or before the assumed ending date as the first policy anniversary on which the sum of any endowment benefit and any cash surrender value then available is greater than the excess premium, is, except as otherwise provided in 33-2-412, the greater of the reserve as of the policy anniversary calculated as described in subsection (1) or the reserve as of the policy anniversary calculated as described in subsection (1) with the following exceptions:

(i) the value defined in subsection (1)(a) is reduced by 15% of the amount of the excess first-year premium;

(ii) all present values of benefits and premiums are determined without reference to premiums or benefits provided for in the policy after the assumed ending date;

(iii) the policy is assumed to mature on the assumed ending date as an endowment; and

(iv) the cash surrender value provided on the assumed ending date is considered an endowment benefit.

(b) In making the comparisons in subsection (2)(a), the mortality and interest bases stated in 33-2-409 and 33-2-413 must be used.

(3) Reserves according to the commissioner's reserve valuation method for the following must be calculated by a method consistent with the principles of this section, except that any extra premiums charged because of impairments or special hazards must be disregarded in the determination of modified net premiums:

(a) life insurance policies providing for a varying amount of insurance or requiring the payment of varying premiums;

(b) group annuity and pure endowment contracts purchased under a retirement plan or plan of deferred compensation, established or maintained by an employer, including a partnership or sole proprietorship, or by an employee organization, or by both, other than a plan providing individual retirement accounts or individual retirement annuities under section 408 of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended;

(c) disability and accidental death benefits in all policies and contracts; and

(d) all other benefits, except life insurance and endowment benefits in life insurance policies and benefits provided by all other annuity and pure endowment contracts.

(4) (a) Subsection (4)(b) applies to any annuity and pure endowment contracts other than group annuity and pure endowment contracts purchased under a retirement plan or plan of deferred compensation established or maintained by an employer, including a partnership or sole proprietorship, or by an employee organization, or by both, other than a plan providing individual retirement accounts or individual retirement annuities under section 408 of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended.

(b) Reserves according to the commissioner's annuity reserve method for benefits under nnuity or pure endowment contracts, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in e contracts, must be the greatest of the respective excesses of the present values, at the date f valuation, of the future guaranteed benefits, including guaranteed nonforfeiture benefits, rovided for by the contracts at the end of each respective contract year, over the present alue, at the date of valuation, of any future valuation considerations derived from future gross nsiderations required by the terms of the contract that become payable prior to the end of e respective contract year. The future guaranteed benefits must be determined by using the ortality table, if any, and the interest rate or rates specified in the contracts for determining uaranteed benefits. The valuation considerations are the portions of the respective gross nsiderations applied under the terms of the contracts to determine nonforfeiture values.

(c) The commissioner's reserve valuation method provided by this section is subject to the rovisions of the valuation manual as adopted by the commissioner.

33-2-412. Limits — options — minimum reserves. (1) (a) An insurer's aggregate eserves for all life insurance policies, excluding disability and accidental death benefits issued n or after October 1, 1995, and prior to adoption of the valuation manual by the commissioner y rule may not be less than the aggregate reserves calculated in accordance with the methods et forth in 33-2-411, 33-2-417(2), subsection (3) of this section, and the mortality table or tables nd rate or rates of interest used in calculating nonforfeiture benefits for the policies.

(b) After the operative date of the valuation manual, the reserve valuation methods etermined by the commissioner under 33-2-411(4)(c) must be used in conjunction with the rovisions of this section.

(2) Reserves for all policies and contracts issued prior to October 1, 1995, may be calculated, t the option of the insurer, according to standards that produce greater aggregate reserves r those policies and contracts than the minimum reserves required by the laws in effect nmediately prior to October 1, 1995. Reserves for any category of policies, contracts, or benefits s established by the commissioner, issued on or after October 1, 1995, may be calculated at the ption of the insurer according to any standards which produce greater aggregate reserves for category than those calculated according to the minimum standard provided in this section, ut the rate or rates of interest used for policies and contracts, other than annuity and pure ndowment contracts, may not be higher than the corresponding rate or rates of interest used in alculating any nonforfeiture benefits provided for a category.

(3) If in any contract year the gross premium charged by any life insurer on any policy r contract is less than the valuation net premium for the policy or contract calculated by the ethod used in calculating the reserve on the policy or contract but using the minimum valuation tandards of mortality and rate of interest, the minimum reserve required for the policy or ontract must be the greater of either the reserve calculated according to the mortality table, ate of interest, and method actually used for the policy or contract or the reserve calculated y the method actually used for the policy or contract but using the minimum standards of ortality and rate of interest and replacing the valuation net premium by the actual gross remium in each contract year for which the valuation net premium exceeds the actual gross remium. The minimum valuation standards of mortality and rate of interest referred to in this ection are those standards stated in 33-2-410 and 33-2-413.

(4) For every life insurance policy issued after December 30, 1986, for which the gross remium in the first policy year exceeds that of the second year, for which a comparable additional enefit is not provided in the first year for an excess, and that provides an endowment benefit, a ash surrender value, or a combination of both in an amount greater than the excess premium, ubsections (1) through (3) of this section must be applied as if the method actually used in alculating the reserve for the policy were the method described in 33-2-411(1). The minimum eserve at each policy anniversary of the policy must be the greater of the minimum reserve alculated in accordance with 33-2-411 and the minimum reserve calculated in accordance with is section.

33-2-413. Interest rates — determination of minimum standard valuation. (1) Fo policies issued prior to the operative date of the valuation manual, the calendar year statutor valuation interest rates as established in this section must be used in determining the minimun standard for the valuation of:

(a) all life insurance policies issued in a particular calendar year on or after January 1 1989;

(b) all individual annuity and pure endowment contracts issued in a particular calenda year on or after January 1, 1984;

(c) all annuities and pure endowments purchased in a particular calendar year on or afte January 1, 1984, under group annuity and pure endowment contracts; and

(d) the net increase, if any, in a particular calendar year after January 1, 1984, in amount held under guaranteed interest contracts.

(2) Except as provided in subsection (3), the calendar year statutory valuation interes rates are determined as follows and the results rounded to the nearer 1/4 of 1%, when R 1 is th lesser of R and .09, R 2 is the greater of R and .09, R is the reference interest rate established i 33-2-415, and W is the weighting factor established in 33-2-414:

(a) for life insurance:

Interest rate = .03 + W(R 1 - .03) + (W/2)(R 2 - .09);

(b) for single-premium immediate annuities and for annuity benefits involving lif contingencies arising from other annuities with cash settlement options and from guarantee interest contracts with cash settlement options:

Interest rate = .03 + W(R - .03);

(c) for other annuities with:

(i) cash settlement options and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlemen options, valued on an issue year basis, except as stated in subsection (2)(b), the formula fo life insurance stated in subsection (2)(a) applies to annuities and guaranteed interest contract with guarantee durations in excess of 10 years and the formula for single-premium immediat annuities stated in subsection (2)(b) applies to annuities and guaranteed interest contracts wit guarantee durations of 10 years or less;

(ii) no cash settlement options and for guaranteed interest contracts with no cas settlement options, the formula for single-premium immediate annuities stated in subsectio (2)(b) applies; and

(iii) cash settlement options and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlemen options valued on a change-in-fund basis, the formula for single-premium immediate annuitie stated in subsection (2)(b) applies.

(3) If the calendar year statutory valuation interest rate for any life insurance policie issued in any calendar year differs from the corresponding actual rate for similar policies issue in the immediately preceding calendar year by less than 1/2 of 1%, the calendar year statutor valuation interest rate for such life insurance policies is equal to the corresponding actual rat for the immediately preceding calendar year. For purposes of this subsection, the calendar yea statutory valuation interest rate for life insurance policies issued in a calendar year must b determined for 1980 (using the reference interest rate defined for 1979) and must be determine for each subsequent calendar year regardless of when 33-20-208 becomes operative.

33-2-414. Interest rate weighting factor. (1) The weighting factors referred to in th formulas stated in 33-2-413 are as follows:

(a) (i) for life insurance:

Guarantee Duration in Years	Weighting Factors
10 or less	.50
More than 10 but not more than 20	.45
More than 20	.35

(ii) for life insurance, the guarantee duration is the maximum number of years the life surance can remain in force on a basis guaranteed in the policy or under options to convert to ans of life insurance with premium rates or nonforfeiture values, or both, that are guaranteed the original policy;

(b) .80 for single premium immediate annuities and for annuity benefits involving life ntingencies arising from other annuities with cash settlement options and guaranteed interest ntracts with cash settlement options;

(c) for other annuities and for guaranteed interest contracts, except as stated in subsection)(b), according to the guarantee duration established in subsections (1)(c)(i) through (1)(c)(iii) ıd the rules and definitions established in subsections (2) through (4):

More than 5 but not more than 10	.75	.60	.50
More than 10 but not more than 20	.65	.50	.45
More than 20	.45	.35	.35

	Plan Type
i)	A	B	C
for annuities and guaranteed interest contracts valued on a change-in-fund basis, the factors shown in subsection (1)(c)(i) increased by:	.15	.25	.05

(2) For other annuities with cash settlement options and guaranteed interest contracts ith cash settlement options, the guarantee duration is the number of years for which the ntract guarantees interest rates in excess of the calendar year statutory valuation interest ıte for life insurance policies with guarantee duration in excess of 20 years. For other annuities ithout cash settlement options and for guaranteed interest contracts without cash settlement ɔtions, the guarantee duration is the number of years from the date of issue or date of purchase the date annuity benefits are scheduled to commence.

(3) Plan types used in subsection (1)(c) are:

33-2-2301. Legislative findings and purpose. (1) The legislature finds that:

(a) air ambulance services provide a necessary, and sometimes lifesaving, means of transporting Montanans experiencing health emergencies;

(b) Montanans desire adequate access to air ambulance services;

(c) in many cases the high charges assessed by out-of-network air ambulance services and limited insurer and health plan reimbursements have resulted in Montanans incurring excessive out-of-pocket expenses; and

(d) the federal Airline Deregulation Act preempts states from enacting any law related to a price, route, or service of an air carrier, which is interpreted as applying to air ambulance services.

(2) The purpose of this part is to prevent Montanans from incurring excessive out-of-pocket expenses in out-of-network air ambulance situations in a manner that is not preempted by the Airline Deregulation Act.
